We cut the cost and guesswork involved in finding and retaining contingent workers.

Protallian connects contract consultants and engineers with the companies and organizations who need them.

When you request referrals from our network, you deal directly with the best contractors.

Building a talent community

Our membership is composed exclusively of independent consultants who are invited into the network by other members. This keeps the network small, but helps us maintain and enhance its quality.

Through a separate web site, our members can post their resumes, communicate with each other, enter personal recommendations, and post job openings on behalf of their clients. This seamless approach creates a tightly linked community of professionals in the same areas of specialty.

Removing barriers

We are not gatekeepers; instead, we facilitate your connection with the network. Unlike staffing agencies, we give you immediate and direct access to potential candidates.

You determine the relative importance of each required skill, and then we match your requirements to our members' skills automatically. Contact the candidates, or let them come to you—it's your choice.

You pay nothing for this service until you have retained the services of one of our members. At that point, we charge an hourly fee—at a much lower rate than that charged by traditional staffing firms. Since you determine the worker's billing rate, your final cost is completely transparent. Nothing is bundled or hidden in the rate.

Reducing cost

Our members act as both our "product" and our sales force. Our low operating expenses allow us to keep our fees to a minimum—and even to share part of the fee with our members, increasing their incentive to build and maintain the community.

By bypassing the traditional staffing agency, we greatly reduce the overhead cost—the difference between the worker's rate and what you pay. You pay less and the worker earns more.

Tap into our network

One place to find the best talent...quickly...at a lower rate than through traditional agencies.

The Protallian network. It's the next best thing to having your own.
